The Burlingame Historical District consists of some forty acres of land, originally developed in 1912, extending along San Marcos Street to the north, Kalmia Street to the south, 32nd Street to the east, and 30th Street to the west. The tract's architectural significance is expressed in its curvilinear street plan, which follows the area's natural contours. The original planners, Joseph McFadden and George Buxton, demarcated it with rose-colored sidewalks, the only such area in the City of San Diego to do so. Limited access to the tract at the time of its incorporation has left it with a quality of an integrated and separate development distinct from the surrounding community. The tract is a major example of an early twentieth century local experimental approach to real estate development utilizing a "team of specialists" to develop, market and deal exclusive real estate property. Its developers were extremely active in local real estate development during this time. Architectural control was maintained through the use of consulting architect, William H. Wheeler, and restrictive building covenants. Later on, these controls would be enforced through the watchdog efforts of Burlingame Women's Club, allegedly the earliest and oldest neighborhood organization in San Diego. Located within the tract is an eclectic mix of over two hundred unique and interesting houses, each a representation of pre-World War One suburban residential architecture; including Craftsman, Mission, Spanish Colonial and Pueblo Revivals, as well as Prairie School, Art Deco, Ranch, Colonial Revival and many other individual hybrid combinations of several styles.

* P3a. Description: (Describe resource and its major elements. Include design, materials, condition, alterations, size, setting, and boundaries.)

This house was built in 1925 in the Spanish Colonial Revival style. The house is one-story and is located on the corner. It has a flat roof, parapet walls, round clay vents, and a tapered chimney. The exterior wall material is stucco. To the right of the entry, a projecting clay tile shed roof with stucco brackets hangs over a three-arched window with high relief salomonic-like columns between the window and the multi-light casement window. The house has a corner porch with an arched entry and open modified arch elements. The second entry on the side of the house is recessed and framed by a heavy, slightly projecting sloped roof with heavy stuccoed wood brackets. The side windows have a slightly sloping stucco projection over the windows. Eclectic wood windows of different sizes and forms are throughout. There is a garage attached to the house on the same plane as the side façade with an arched doorway between the garage and the house. The house is located in the community of Burlingame. It is in good condition. The total usable floor area is 1,871 square feet. The house features 3 bedrooms and 2 baths. The total lot area is 6,100 square feet.

The Burlingame Historical District consists of some forty acres of land, originally developed in 1912, extending along San Marcos Street to the north, Kalmia Street to the south, 32nd Street to the east, and 30th Street to the west. The tract's architectural significance is expressed in its curvilinear street plan, which follows the area's natural contours. The original planners, Joseph McFadden and George Buxton, demarcated it with rose-colored sidewalks, the only such area in the City of San Diego to do so. Limited access to the tract at the time of its incorporation has left it with a quality of an integrated and separate development distinct from the surrounding community. The tract is a major example of an early twentieth century local experimental approach to real estate development utilizing a "team of specialists" to develop, market and deal exclusive real estate property. Its developers were extremely active in local real estate development during this time. Architectural control was maintained through the use of consulting architect, William H. Wheeler, and restrictive building covenants. Later on, these controls would be enforced through the watchdog efforts of Burlingame Women's Club, allegedly the earliest and oldest neighborhood organization in San Diego. Located within the tract is an eclectic mix of over two hundred unique and interesting houses, each a representation of pre-World War One suburban residential architecture; including Craftsman, Mission, Spanish Colonial and Pueblo Revivals, as well as Prairie School, Art Deco, Ranch, Colonial Revival and many other individual hybrid combinations of several styles.
